THE HOUSTON LYCEUM. The year 190 has been marked as a period of unusual fluancial depression and of failures over the country, but not withstanding this the Houston Lycela stantial benefits and usefulness it has accomplished, perhaps, as much during this time as in any period of the same length in the history of the institution. With a large and active membership, it has kept its library open to the public regularly as a free reading room, where it has received over 15.00 visitives. It has added to its library during this time over 500 bound volumes, a large number of unbound volmines, pamphlets, magazines and literary publications of different kinds, and has kept regularly on file at least eight daily papers and quite a number of weekles.

THE REMINGTON TYPEWRITER, The truth of the maxim, "The best is the chempest," has been proven many times; but not more certain than in the case of the Remington Standard Typewriter. The fame of this machine has spread throughout the civilized globe; and wherever there is huying and selling, the civic of the unquirous Remington is heard, as, under the skillful manipulation of the expert, it fulfils its mission, accelerating and making sure the movements of that multiv engine—commerce.
